Long ago, the village of Pidlissia was called Patsykiv after a famous local landowner, Mr. Patsyk. He was a very rich and kind man who always cared about the village's well-being and growth. He used his money to build schools, churches, and things for the people. Everyone in the area knew about his kindness.

As time passed, the village started to change. Because it was close to the forest, it became famous among people who liked nature and its beauty. The people of Patsykiv decided their village needed a new name that showed it was close to the forest.

That's when the idea to rename the village came up. The villagers met and voted, choosing the new name - Pidlissia. They chose it to show how the village and the forest were together. The forest near Pidlissia has always been a source of wood and prosperity for people.

Pidlissia became known for being welcoming and having natural beauty. The village grew, and the people worked hard to keep the forest safe. Every year, more and more tourists and nature lovers come to Pidlissia for vacations.
